It's Done And Little We Could Do To Stop It

We've talked so much about the evils of paying for capital outlay by tax levy rather than by bond issue that we are wearied of the subject. What we have to say about the Sanitary Board's act in setting a 23 cent increase in taxes to pay for improvements to the system can be said in a very few words. We believe that the board has talked itself into a sincere conviction that in this case the tax levy is the right way to finance the project. We believe that it is the wrong way. It is bad business and bad ethics. However, they are legally empowered to act as they have and there is nothing that the citizens can do about it. We hope that the evil effect stops with the sanitary district board, that the idea doesn't spread to the school board and the city council because this easy way out is an alluring thought to any governing group.

Picture Book Problems

There are a whole stack of pretty picture books, photographs and reproductions of paintings, in the Carmel library that a lot of us would like to take home and brood over, comfortably spread out in an easy chair and under the good light of our own reading lamp. But that isn't the way the system operates. If we want to look at the picture books, we have to look at them right there in the library, whether or not there is a chair within fourteen feet of a spot of good light or a chair at all, because the picture books are clearly marked, "This book does not circulate."

"Why not?" we asked our friend, Miss Elizabeth Niles, once upon a time.

"Because people tear out the pictures and pin them up on the bathroom wall," said Miss Niles.

Since some of those picture books cost anywhere from twenty-five to fifty dollars we could understand why Miss Niles felt that to allow them to circulate where they would have their pictures removed from their covers to decorate unscrupulous art lovers' bathroom walls, was not a sound business policy.

But we still wanted to take home the book. And we felt that the non-tearing-out library users should not be penalized for the sins of the tearers-out.

Then we put our so-called business brains to working on the aesthetic problem and emerged with a rowboat solution. When we were a boarding school girl at Holy Names on Lake Merritt in Oakland, we and our dearest chums and companions used to gang up to rent a row boat for an hour on the lake, and how we had to dig down in our allowances to raise among us the cash "deposit" to leave with the boat keeper as an assurance that we'd bring back the boat and not just leave it on the opposite shore and go for a walk, also that we'd not carve our

Bach Festival Reviews

BY EBEN WHITTLESEY

Trumpets sounded a clarion call as the eleventh Bach Festival opened Monday evening in Sunset Auditorium. "Gloria in Excelsis Deo" sang the chorus of seventy voices while Carmel's incurably disrespectful audience stumbled late into its seats.

Conductor Gaston Usigli feels this year that he is achieving a result with his chorus toward which he has striven for many seasons. This year the chorus has concentrated more of its efforts on the B Minor Mass, climax of the Festival, than in former seasons. Additional portions of the Mass, never before attempted by this chorus, will be heard next Sunday. A foretaste of this was given Monday evening when the chorus sang the deeply emotional Quiltollis for the first time. This was followed by an excerpt from the cantata, Sleepers Awake. The chorus displayed greater assurance and unity in attack than in prior seasons, while the five vocal parts were well balanced.

The dynamics of the singers were well controlled, and the orchestra gave firm support, notable for the effectiveness of an augmented string section.

$150,000 Sanitary Improvements Will Be "Dead Horse" In Ten Years: Board Increases Taxes 23 Cents

The Carmel Sanitary district voted to finance a $33,000 sewer outfall by tax levy rather than by bond issue at an adjourned meeting Monday night. A tax rate of 37 cents on the hundred was fixed, a 23 cents increase over last year, to pay for the outfall, the first project on a $150,000 improvement program that is to extend over five years and be financed by a 23 cent additional yearly tax levy.

To the group of citizens attending the meeting to protest the tax rather than bond method of financing the project, Board Member Keith Evans said that a bond issue over a 15 year period for the $150,000 would involve a 10½ cent increase in taxes, which would be an over-all greater cost because of interest. He didn't like the long term payment system involved in the bond issue, he said, because the improvements would be outmoded by the end of ten years, have to be replaced, and for the remaining five years of the bond issue the citizens would be "paying for a dead horse."

One of the audience plaintively asked why it wasn't possible to make improvements for $150,000 that wouldn't be in the dead horse class within ten years.

Other board members hastened into the breach with explanations and assurances but it was a depressed group of tax payers who departed the meeting with the thought that for the next five years they will be paying 23 cents additional taxes per year for a horse that one board member believes will be dead five years after

Victorine Ranch Sold For $150,000; Coast Acres To Be Subdivided Soon

Another old California estate, the lovely Victorine Acres that stretch along the coast for a mile south of Yankee Point in the Highlands, giving the motorists along Highway No. 1 an uninterrupted view of the coast, will be broken up into house lots for a real estate subdivision. This week the Victorine Estate sold the property, 1,240 acres, to Charles G. Sawyer of San Francisco. Purchase price $150,000.

The Victorine acres, at one time known as San Remo, was purchased from the original Spanish-American owners by the late Joseph Victorine, pioneer coast rancher, who came from Fayal, Azores islands, to join his father, Antonio Victorine, who had come to California in the '60s in a whaling ship. Antonio for years was a whaler at Point Lobos, and operated a ranch near the mouth of San Jose creek. His wife and family, including Joseph, came to Monterey in 1870, after crossing the Atlantic to Panama, thence across the Isthmus in a tiny train, and by ship to San Francisco.

Joseph, the son, acquired the San Remo property that came to be known as the Victorine ranch. The ranch descended to the Victorine children through Joseph's late wife, Mrs. Louisa Victorine, who died January 31, 1947.

Reginald Foster, who acted as attorney for the Victorine Estate in the land sale, says that he believes it is Sawyer's intention to start development of the land as a real estate tract immediately.

Dr. Dardel, Swiss Cancer Specialist, Marvels At American Hospital Efficiency, Grumbles At Carmel Fog

By JOHN UPTON

"American scientists are doing the most outstanding work in cancer research today," said Dr. Gustave Dardel, Swiss cancer and goitre specialist and chief surgeon of the Victoria Clinic at Berne, in Carmel this week. In his first visit to the United States, he has recently completed a tour of inspection of American hospitals, studying research methods and surgical practice.

The organization in the medical field in the United States is unbelievable," he said. "The Mayo Clinic in Rochester, for example, is like a factory: lights flashing, bells ringing, dozens of operations going on at the same time." He rummaged through a brief case and brought out a printed schedule. "Look. Operations from morning until night. Room number, surgeon in charge, description of the case, name of the hospital; all handled with the most tremendous efficiency. I knew the Mayo brothers ten years ago in Switzerland, and of course have heard much about their famous clinic; but I wasn't prepared for this veritable city of medicine."

Although Dr. Dardel, like most Swiss, speaks French, German, and Italian, his English is confined to a few phrases. Our conversation was carried on through his son, Bernie, who has been in Carmel since October of last year, studying flying at the Monterey airport.

"The reason for our being in Carmel is rather interesting," Bernie said. "Just after the war, I was a guide for Swiss tours for American soldiers. In Milan, I made the acquaintance of a member of the American Military Police, who told me about Carmel. He was Lloyd Miller, of the Carmel High School. When my mother and father decided to come to California, he very graciously offered us his home while he was away on his vacation."

Dr. Dardel, author of 23 books and monographs on cancer and goitre in French and German since 1917, is now preparing a volume entitled Le Cancer—Sa Pathogenie et Les Conditions de Sa Guérison (Cancer—Its Pathogeny and Its Cure), to be published this winter. Much of the material included will be from his American tour. During the war, the doctor was commander of the Swiss military hospitals, and in that capacity was responsible for the care of many American and British fliers who were forced down in his country by weather conditions or enemy gunfire. At the close of the war, over 100 American Liberators and Flying Fortresses were lined up on Swiss airports.

"Available statistics show that there is a higher incidence of cancer in Switzerland than in the United States," he said. "This is probably true, although the Swiss figures are undoubtedly more accurate: there are only about 4 million people to tabulate. There may be thousands of cases in this country that have never been diagnosed or recorded."

LOST: ONE FOOTBRIDGE

Tracking down a footbridge in Carmel is not quite the same thing as the finding of a murderer by Nero Wolfe. One is done with worry, hope, despair and a sad trail of thistles in one's nylons, whereas the other is accomplished with ease, swiftness and the certainty of victory. Following up a phone call to The Pine Cone, we looked for footbridges all over the place, finding one on Flanders way, on Viscaino way, one down near the Pebble Beach gate, but no new neat little footbridge, recently erected by a kind neighbor to aid pedestrians from somewhere around Hatton Fields to somewhere around Carmel village. If any discreet pathfinder knows of this new bridge, we should like to hear all about it: where? when? and by whom?

LEGION HAS FIRM GRIP ON ADULT LEAGUE RACE

Enjoying a bye last week while the Firemen were shellacking the Police and the Faculty were humbling the Lions, the Kelsey-led American Legion softballers practically cinched the first half of the Adult League scramble. The Legionnaires have yet to do battle with the Carmel Firemen, but, in their present form, it appears that the Legion packs too many guns for the willing fire-fighters.

Kenny Roberts led his smoke-eaters to a 12-9 decision over the Police last Wednesday when the Firemen tallied 6 runs in both the fourth and sixth frames. After being stung in the sixth inning, the Police came to life and pushed across 4 runs but fell 3 tallies short of gaining a tie. Rip Belvail swung the big stick for the Firemen when he connected for two doubles in three chances. Brilliant fielding by Stan Hilbert prevented Red Klawman from a round-tripper. Stan did a one-and-a-half over the fence in left field, came up with the ball and tossed Red out at the plate. These Firemen are made of sturdy stuff.

The Faculty and Lions renewed their feud last week and the Lions are about ready to concede that "you can't beat education." With Ky Dawson pitching big-league ball all the way, the knowledge dispensers found a smooth road to a 5-2 victory. Dawson scattered the Lions' seven hits and had the game well in hand. The teachers touched Jack Giles for 11 hits, most of them coming with ducks on the pond. Mel Ray and hurler Dawson were the big batting guns of the game. Both connected for 3 clouts in 4 attempts. Leftfielder Mike Balazs nicked Dawson for two hits in three trips to the plate.

PINE CONE EDGES 2 TO 1 WIN OVER SUNNYVALE

A big third inning which saw Ky Miyamoto hit a screaming double with two men on base netted the Pine Cone softballers a brace of tallies which proved enough to hang a 2-1 defeat on a highly touted Sunnyvale Legion nine. Ky not only wielded the big stick for the blue and red clad Coners, but he also pitched a nifty three hitter and allowed only two men to reach third base. The lone Sunnyvale run came on the strength of a booming triple which landed well against the school house. Hustling fielding by Rip Belvail held the Sunnyvale slugger to a triple and prevented them from tying the score. Rip also hauled down two other well hit balls to ease the Coners out of tight spots. Joe Nicholson emerged from a batting slump-to-nearly upset the Sunnyvale center fielder with one of the hardest hit balls of the current season.

Don Edwards handled the initial sack for the locals and his six feet six provided plenty of target for the infielders. Don showed lots of finesse around the bag and his big bat is a welcome addition to the Pine Cone batting order.

PINE CONE-WILDER &amp; JONES SERIES STARTS TUESDAY

With the championship of Carmel and a barbecue riding on the outcome, Cree Wilder's Plumber softball crew will square off against Cliff Cook's Pine Cone nine next Tuesday night, in the first of a three game series. On paper the two teams appear to be very evenly matched with the Pine Cone enjoying the edge in experience and pitching, while the Plumbers have vigorous youth and a crew of potent hitters. Don Edwards will toe the slab for the printers and Leo Branson will toss them over for Wilder & Jones. Leo has yet to taste defeat this season and Plumber fans are confident that he can take the measure of the Coners. Edwards showed a world of stuff in holding the mighty San Francisco Industries team to a 2-2 tie and appears to be just now rounding into top form.

BOTH W&amp;J AND PINE CONE LOSE TO SALINAS NINES

In last Tuesday's doubleheader with the Salinas 20-30 Club and the Salinas Sportsmen, the two local nines were edged out in both contests. The Clubmen went out and scored 6 runs in the first two innings to take a commanding lead which the Plumbers were unable to surmount. Although the W&J boys put on a smashing rally in the last inning they fell one run short of a tie and Salinas earned the verdict, 6 to 5. Bud Rose and Willard Branson did the pitching for the locals with Rose the victim of the Salinas scoring. Willard held the 20-30 hitters in check after the fourth frame.

The Pine Cone-Sportsmen tilt went eight innings before the issue could be settled, with the visitors pushing across 2 runs in the top of the eighth to walk off with the victory, 4 to 2. Fred Zanini and Don Edwards matched pitches in the second contest and the honors were about even. The Coners rapped Zanini for 7 blows while the valley boys got to Don for 6 safeties. Joe Nicholson continued his hitting spree, garnering 3 hard hit singles in 4 trips to the plate.

FORD ORD TEAM UPSETS WILDER &amp; JONES

Riding high behind the four hit pitching of Bill Nelson, the Fort Ord soldiers ended the Wilder & Jones winning streak at five when they hung a 4-0 whitewashing on the Plumbers last Friday night. Except for Lew Saunders, Nelson had the Plumber hitters at his mercy for the complete seven innings. Lew solved Nelson's slants pretty well and in the fifth connected for a resounding triple which nearly drove in a tally but the preceding base runner forgot the first rule in the book and failed to touch third base—the penalty for which is another out. Bud Rose, on the mound for Wilder & Jones, pitched a creditable game and with better breaks in the game could have escaped unscathed. Two fielding miscues at inopportune times put Rose in tough pitching spots and the eager soldiers took advantage of both Plumber errors.

BOYS' CLUB MIDGETS TOP JUNIOR LEAGUE

Henry Overin's big bat and Johnny DeAmaral's air-tight pitching has just about put the Carmel Boys' Club Midgets on top of the heap for the first half of the Junior League race. Overin garnered 3 for 4 to pace the sluggers against the New Monterey Boys' Club while DeAmaral limited the Monterey slingers to one run. The Midgets have yet to meet the Carmel Juniors and if they should stub their toes against the other Carmel entry they will be tied with New Monterey for the top spot.

Bach Festival Reviews

An outstanding characteristic of Usigli's interpretation of Bach, well illustrated throughout this concert, is the legato, lyric treatment of music which is all too frequently performed with a mathematical accuracy tending to produce a dry and mechanical effect. The second movement was notable for the firmness and mellow-ness of the bass strings. In the more rapid third movement there was noticeable precision of attack, good balance and fine execution of spiccato passages by the violin soloist, Ervin Mautner.

Phyllis Moffet as vocal soloist in the Cantata No. 209, gave a satisfying performance with the able support of Mr. Usigli at the piano. The conductor includes in his many accomplishments that of being a very fine accompanist. Miss Moffet has a lovely voice with a mellow, firm tone. Her vocal style is controlled, unaffected and not over-dramatic. She approaches Bach with the understanding that his music should not be sung either in the manner of Italian opera or as the usual religious solo.

The first Bach Festival performance of the Haydn E Flat trumpet concerto by Gabriel Bartold was one of the high points of the evening, not only in intensity of sound, but in dramatic effect. The orchestra gained body in its tone with the addition of percus-sion to the more limited instru-mentation characteristic of Bach. Mr. Bartold, whose first name is so well suited to his instrument, is an outstanding artist, playing a special Bach trumpet of beautiful tonal quality. The concerto opened with a stirring challenge characteristic of its composer, and developed a delightful melodic theme carried throughout the work. The strings had a velvet quality effectively contrasted with the strong notes of the soloist. Mr. Bartold achieves an unusual dynamic range with a quality which is never thin or brittle.

The last part of the program consisted of the E Major violin Concerto of Bach, with Nannette Levi as soloist. This young artist, a favorite of last season, is growing in musical stature. She has a pure, light tone, and very expressive modulation. In rapid passages her execution is good without any loss of clarity and distinctiveness of individual notes. The second movement opened with an eloquent and tender statement of the theme, taken up smoothly by the supporting strings. The artist has gained assurance since her last appearance here.

The third movement has a jubilant opening, and brilliant passages where the execution of the solo violin was like darting fire. A thoroughly satisfying performance concluded an evening which set a high standard for the rest of the week.

The second concert of the Bach Festival greeted a capacity audience with the Brandenburg Concerto No. 1. Nannette Levi led the string section, while Willard Culley and Alan Robinson turned in fine performances as horn players, although they were not as secure in the earlier portions of the work as were Whitney Tustin, Ralph Wattilo and George Cunha, the oboists. William Wattilo turned in a good performance on the bassoon. The orchestra as a whole showed that it had shaken down and become a more cohesive unit since Monday night, and this was particularly noticeable in the string section. The first movement ended with a gay and brilliant passage for the horns. The second movement opens with a series of passages alternately for horns and strings in the manner of a conversation. Here the performance of the strings was very smooth. The last movement is a complicated fugue arrangement in the best Bach tradition which taxes the mind in following the various parts. It was very well ex-ecuted, although one of the violins was noticeably inaccurate at times.

Following the concerto, Noel Sullivan, bass, sang two songs in the reverse order from that on the printed program. Vieni Che Poi Sereno by Gluck, and Tu Lo Sai by Torelli provided a warm contrast both in content and me-dium of expression with the scho-lasticism of Bach. Mr. Sullivan is a well trained artist with a rich, truly bass quality, who uses ex-cellent diction and has a fine per-ception of the emotional or dra-matic content of everything he sings. His annual participation in the Festival has helped to make the event one of truly local as well as national significance. A rich orchestral background added to the effectiveness of the songs.

The Bach Concerto in D Minor for two violins and orchestra, fea-turing Nannette Levi and Ervin Mautner gave us another welcome opportunity to enjoy the splendid technique and fine musical qual-ities of Nannette Levi, who had already won her audience on Mon-day evening. She has both beauty of tone and skill in execution. Miss Levi's approach to Bach is ideal, in my estimation, for the effective presentation of his works. She plays without affectation or dramatization of her part, allowing the music to speak for itself and for her.

There is a delightful interweaving of the two violin parts, par-ticularly in the slow movement. The orchestral background was delicate and smooth. The last movement rises to a climax with highly complex melodic patterns for the two violins which were very effectively negotiated.

The evening's entertainment rose to a climax with the playing of Beethoven's fourth piano Con-certo, with a cadenza in the first movement by Nicholas Medtner. The brilliant soloist was Maxime Schapiro, with Mr. Usigli, of course, on the podium. The or-chestra was badly crowded on the stage because of the presence of the risers for the chorus which will remain in place until the Sun-day performances of the B Minor Mass.

The concerto was well chosen for inclusion in a program mainly devoted to Bach, being one of Beethoven's less bombastic works. In the hands of Messrs. Schapiro and Usigli it was given a sensitive and delicate reading. Mr. Schapiro displayed brilliant finger work, a fine, light touch and thrilling execution of difficult runs. The performance as a whole was brilliant and thoroughly sat-isfying.

Ludwig Altman, organist of the Second Church of Christ, Scien-tist, and Temple Emanu-el in San Francisco, delighted a capacity crowd in two performances at All Saint's Church, Wednesday after-noon, drawing from the small pipe organ more music than many of his hearers thought it could produce.

It is well to remember that the music of Bach and his contemporaries was not written for the mammoth organs of our great theaters and churches, complete with bird calls and steam whistles, but for a much simpler, less flexible instrument whose air pressure was usually supplied in uncertain quantities by boy-power.

The first group of selections was by Johann Pachelbel, a pre-cursor of Bach, opening with the Toccata in C Minor, a simple se-lection whose charming melody brought out clear and delicate ex-ecution. The choral prelude How Beautiful Shineth the Morning Star, had a simple lyric quality of great charm. Riccerare was on a higher emotional plane evoking dynamic power from the organ with its full base tones.

Turning to the music of Bach, Mr. Altman played the prelude and fugue in G Major, displaying a higher structural development. His clear tone and smooth flowing style brought out the complex structure of the fugue without losing the lovely melodic line.

The choral prelude from Sleep-ers Awake followed, with a gay and graceful theme. A series of choral preludes from the liturgical year called forth a variety of emotional states, prayerful supplica-tion, humility, contrition and joyful exaltation.

The climax of the concert was Bach's triple fugue in E flat ma-

Don McFadden

Don McFadden, 42, former Carmel resident and one-time manager of the Mission Ranch Club here, died at his home in San Mateo, July 10. After coming to Carmel in 1938, he served three years in the Army, stationed at Salt Lake City, then returned here for a short time before moving to San Mateo. At the time of his death McFadden was an auditor for the Federal Housing Expediter in San Francisco.

Surviving him are his father, Mr. Altman played the prelude and fugue in G Major, displaying a higher structural development. His clear tone and smooth flowing style brought out the complex structure of the fugue without losing the lovely melodic line.

The choral prelude from Sleep-ers Awake followed, with a gay and graceful theme. A series of choral preludes from the liturgical year called forth a variety of emotional states, prayerful supplica-tion, humility, contrition and joyful exaltation.

The artist performed this highly involved work with great clarity and brilliance of execution, keeping distinct the several voices of the fugue while exhibiting much color of tone and dynamic variety.

Carmel City Taxes Upped 18 Cents; Council Sets 1949 Levy At $1.10

Carmel city taxes are up 18 cents. The city council, in an adjourned meeting Wednesday night fixed the tax levy for 1949 at $1.10 on the hundred dollars. This year's tax rate was 92 cents.

In a prepared statement, read by City Clerk Mawdsley, the council gave the following explanation of the need for the increase:

"Last year the Carmel Council gave the taxpayers a free ride on 92c, an increase of 18c.

"The budget prepared by the council has risen from $10,970 this year to $120,130, an increase of $21,160, or a little over 21 per cent. This increase is offset in part by an increase of $2,880 in the estimated income from sources other than taxes, and by an increase in the tax product of $65.00 for every cent of the tax rate, this having gone up on the new assessment roll to an even $800. The net tax requirement for the General Fund is up $18,280—from $52,920 to $71,200.

"The Library Board's budget shows an increase of 17 per cent, rising from $16,000 to $18,700, with income available from other sources remaining about the same."

Final action on Carmel's proposed rooming house ordinance was put off for another month by the city council Wednesday night. In an adjourned meeting called to set the 1949 tax rate, with only a bare quorum present to discuss the new ruling controlling paying guests in the residential area, the council postponed its decision until the next regular meeting, when the city attorney and other councilmen will be present.

"Four members of the planning commission are entirely in favor of the ordinance," reported P. A. McCreery, chairman of the commission, from the audience. "One member, however, questions the legality of the city's assumption of the privilege of entering private homes for inspections. I would suggest that those who are in doubt read the statement of policy of the planning commission. Carmel is primarily a residential city; enterprises bordering on commerce have always been considered of secondary importance. This ordinance is designed to keep it that way by reaching people who earn their entire livelihood by renting rooms."

Other matters before the council Wednesday included authorization by the Division of Highways for improvement of the truck route. City Clerk Peter Mawdsley explained that this route into Carmel is considered an arterial by the Division, and hence may be improved partially by funds from State gasoline tax sources. Improvements will call for a plant mixture surfacing 30 feet wide, with work beginning as soon as bids received for supplies have been approved by the street department.

School Board Makes Second Try For Swimming Pool

Members of the board of the Carmel Unified School District authorized advertising for bids on the construction of the Dolores street grammar school and the aquatic center at the high school at an adjourned meeting Tuesday night.

This is the second time the board has asked for bids for the swimming pool. In January of this year, when bids were opened, they were found to be out of reach of the building budget; and the board decided to postpone indefinitely building the swimming pool. So great was the disappointment of the townspeople that the board, after scaling down the specifications to a minimum, is again advertising in the hope that it will get a bid that will conform with the budget. *

S. F. Opera Co. Chorus For Carmel Opera Series

Plans for the series of four grand operas to be given in the Forest Theatre September 2, 3, 4, and 5, under the Carmel management of Hal Boyd and Thomas Morley, are proceeding favorably.

Three-quarters of the amount needed as a guarantee to bring this successful professional opera group to the Peninsula has already been raised by pledges from residents of this area who are interested in stimulating cultural activities on the Peninsula.

The series will include Rigoletto, Lucia, La Traviata, and Carmen. Arturo Casiglia, director of the Pacific Coast Opera Company, has directed outdoor opera productions for the past 20 years in San Francisco's Stern Grove. Mr. Casiglia will use a professional chorus composed of members of the San Francisco Opera Company Chorus in the Carmel Productions. Mr. Casiglia will conduct the 10 piece orchestra.

Mr. Casiglia will bring Consuelo Gonzales for the role of Carmen and Joseph Tissier, operatic tenor for the role of the Duke of Mantua in "Rigoletto." Other artists will be announced within the next few weeks.

This series will make it possible for local residents and their guests to enjoy Grand Opera productions at moderate prices. *

MORALS HEARING SET

Preliminary hearing on morals charges involving six men, two of them Carmel residents, taken into custody last Friday at a local apartment hotel, was set for 2 p. m., July 27, by Judge George Ross at an arraignment Tuesday afternoon. Bail was set at $1,000 each for Richard Price and Terry Eby, both of Carmel; Wesley Spurley and James Falck of San Francisco; Douglas Andrews, Bashon Island, Washington; and Jack Christensen, Pomona. The men were arrested July 16 on the complaint of the proprietor of the hotel.

Hollister Horse Show Begins Soon

Horses of virtually all sizes, ages and breeds will be featured at the San Benito County Saddle Horse Show and Rodeo, to be held July 30 through August 1.

Five classes of registered breeding animals—including Morgans, Quarter horses and Arabians—will be judged in the Light Horse Division of the show. In addition, there will be six classes for grade animals—those sired by registered stallions.

The show will open daily at 1:30 p. m. with a parade of mounted contestants past the grandstand at Bolado Park, eight miles south of Hollister. *

Hughes House Guests

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Berry of San Mateo spent last weekend as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hughes of Carmel Woods. This weekend the Hughes are entertaining W. H. Taplin, vice-president of the American Trust Company in San Francisco.

Sophie Harpe: Her Work In Progress

BY PHIL NESBITT

In discussing the paintings-in-progress of Sophie Harpe, now on exhibit in a one-man show at the Carmel Art Gallery, I want to point out first that her work is both enjoyable and pleasing to a marked degree. I believe that Miss Harpe is torn somewhat between her impulses as a painter and in her skill as an academic painter and a modern abstractionist. However, this is unimportant in the face of her over-all skill with the brush. Sophie Harpe invents her abstractions rather than imagines them.

It is best to consider Sophie Harpe's paintings individually, because each one appears to be a mood in itself, both in technique and in subject. There is little, if any, repetition in her work.

Painting No. 1 is a semi-abstraction, the subject of which is a skeleton bird from whose beak dangle a pair of puppets or marionettes; it is painstakingly painted in admirable watercolor technique. Created in 1946, painting No. 2 shows a very definite abstract mood—that of a madonna-esque form so skilfully suggested by the sense of line and color, that the onlooker cannot help but see the logic of the title.

In straightforward academic watercolor treatment, painting No. 3, created in 1945, is a violin in still-life form. It reveals the somewhat unlimited range of Miss Harpe's brush, which is most dexterous, indeed.

Painting No. 4, called Flight is again a definite abstract rendering, showing bird forms on the wing.

Painted in 1945, painting No. 5 is in what used to be called a "mechanistic" water color technique. That is, it consists of impersonally-drawn form, with very little of the artist's emotions coloring the subject. This painting belongs to a school or technique which goes well beyond the particular artist's claim of invention.

The Mask, done in 1947, is a somewhat less concrete conception of mind in oil. It lacks conviction in its very brush strokes, and implies that Sophie Harpe is essentially a water-color painter.

Plant Forms is what I like to term a "color abstraction." Its color basis is derived from certain modernist color formulas found in the schools of painting in present favor. However, it is less convincing as a formula still life than as an abstract piece of modernism.

Century Plant, painted this year, is a more calmly rendered piece than the painting mentioned above. Less abstract, less modern than most of the oils, it is an entirely acceptable painting.

Painting No. 9 is another oil abstraction called Manniken. It shows for its subject several puppet or marionette figures against a color background skilfully painted.

Green Teapot is again what I term a semi-abstract oil. With less emphasis on a concrete subject than strength of color and form,

Monoplays For
Golden Bough

August 8 at 2:30 in the afternoon at the Golden Bough Playhouse, Edward Kuster will present Lucian Scott in a series of original monologues based on actual happenings and actual people, which are known as monoplays. Mr. Scott, who once taught speech and drama at Carmel High School, and directed and acted at the California First Theatre in Monterey, has had a varied theatrical career in Europe, New York, Honolulu, and did Army work in Alaska. At it is likely to please many of those who study and enjoy it.

Carmel Point shows a moody concept in grayed oils, of rock forms familiar to all the inhabitants of this gray and sombre coastal region.

Painting No. 12, grandiloquently titled Conceptualist Space With Figures, is the "black sheep" of the whole exhibit, in that it lacks kinship with the other paintings. It is, in an obvious way, derived in subject from the ancient Egyptian manner of painting. I find myself well amazed that an artist capable of true originality, would fall back upon such an outlived source of subject matter as this.

Painting No. 13 is undistinguished, being an effortful rendering of a dull subject. It is called Lake El

Ester (in oil.)
But go to the exhibit yourself, and decide whether or not you happen to agree with my opinion of these works. That is the best way.

Citizens' Committee Approves Transfer Of Assessment To County

A citizens' committee, meeting in City Hall Monday afternoon gave its unanimous approval for the transfer of the city assessment and tax collection work to the county office.

The group, made up of key people from Carmel organizations, of representative tax payers, and of city and district governing boards, was summoned by Mayor Fred Godwin to give him community reaction to the city council's proposal to make the transfer. The mayor opened the meeting by explaining that the duplication of assessment work by city and county not only involved waste of money but deprived the city council of the full services of City Clerk Peter Mawdsley for three months of the year during the assessment period. "The council is held up in its work because he does not have time to do research work and assemble information for us."

City Clerk Mawdsley, speaking at the mayor's request, pointed out that if the city continues to do its own assessment work, an additional ten cent increase in tax rate would be necessary to cover new equipment and to hire additional personnel to adapt the city's system to new requirements. The county, at a cost of $362.50 per year, would do all the assessment and tax collecting work. It would act as a collection agency only, in no way usurping the power of the city to fix its own tax levy and make its own budget.

Reaction of the committee was entirely favorable. Judge Dudley Kinsell's comment was typical: "I have only one criticism to make. You should have done it ten years ago." Senator Edward Tickle, a member of the board of directors of the California Tax Payers' Association, though unable to be present, expressed his approval by sending a telegram.

At the next meeting of the city council, the city attorney will be instructed to prepare an ordinance authorizing the transfer. The council will enter into an agreement with the board of supervisors for the county offices to take over the job, and Carmel citizens will find their city taxes next year listed on the county bill as the school board and sanitary district tax are now.

"It's only a year by year agreement. Any time we don't like it, we can withdraw," was Mayor Godwin's final comment.

Citizens invited to the meeting were: Anita Dormody and J. O. Handley, for the school board; Florence Josselyn and Hurd Comstock, the planning commission; Lee Kellogg and Hugh Comstock, the sanitary board; Clayton Neill and Henry F. Jurs, the library board; Corum B. Jackson, the Carmel Real Estate Board; Dr. Charles Pearson and Ernest Morehouse, the Lions Club; Mrs. Frances A. Ballard, League of Women Voters; Mark Raggett, Business Association; Herbert Heron, Keith B. Evans, P. A. McCreery, former mayors of Carmel; citizens at large: William H. Satchell, former mayor of Coalinga; Dudley Kinsell, M. J. Murphy and James E. Doud.

Dr. Billie's Garden

By L. A. W.

Conversation seems to run to tomatoes these days. A good neighbor was telling me yesterday about his tomato plants, and came near blowing a fuse—the neighbor, not the plant. He was about the most disgusted gardener I've seen for many a day. The trouble seemed to be that his plants had all come along and grown into really beautiful specimens and then suddenly he found several of them with wilted leaves. He said they look tired all the time now.

When I asked him if they showed black or brown spots or if they turned a sickly yellow he said he hadn't found any of that sort. So I could console him by telling him the trouble was in all probability a temporary one and the plants would snap out of it with deep and infrequent but regular watering. At least that was the way mine did last year which was all I knew about the ways of the red-fruited. All the same, he went away a bitter and discouraged man.

Of course his plants may have developed Fusarium wilt. For that there is no remedy but to pull up and burn the infected plants. I had a couple of such afflicted plants two years ago that came from some "cheap" seed. Really good seed is bred for resistance to this wilt.

Where there are brown or black spots on the leaves or yellowish leaves near the bottom of the plants, along with some wilting, I have found garden sulphur or a weak Bordeaux mixture is a good corrective. Where any plants show even one of these signs to a considerable degree I have found it wise to harden my heart, pull them out and throw them in the incinerator. Better lose a few plants than lose them all and this wilt or rust is highly contagious no matter how healthy the rest of the plants are. It is like measles and chicken-pox—isolation is indicated. That means, too, I keep such garden material out of the compost heap. I take no chance but embalm, cremate and bury.

Some folks say they lost all their courage about gardening when they read of the many things that can go wrong. That is a point of view I cannot seem to understand. Does creative writing never go wrong? Aren't there any times when a painting goes wrong? Is wood carving always without incident or accident? It seems to me that any creative activity which tries to set free great forces of nature and of life is bound to go wrong at times. The human equation is always present in human striving for expression, whether through the medium of a three-layer cake, an herb garden, a symphony or a cathedral.

I think I am only now coming to appreciate the worker in pure research. I mean the scientists who are interested primarily in the hunt and only incidentally in the kill. Mother Nature is old in experience and equipped with a myriad of forces and she compels man to learn her ways—always at a price. It is as much fun to learn

Outstanding Bay Poets To Read At Pat Wall Gallery

On Saturday evening, July 31, 8:30 o'clock, at the Pat Wall Gallery in Monterey a Midsummer Night of Poetry will be presented by the newly formed Poetry Guild of San Francisco for the benefit of their publishing fund.

Each of seven poets will read from his more serious or "urgent" work, then, after an intermission for refreshments, and for the poets and audience to meet, the poets will read from their shorter and lighter works.

On the gallery walls, as a background to the reading, there will hang a provocative group show from eleven painters, each of whom has taken for his subject the line from Rainer Maria Rilke's Book of the Hours, "The wall is builded of your images. . . ."

Bay Area poets participating in the readings are James Broughton, Robert Duncan, Madeline Gleason and Edith Henrich; locally, William Justema from Pacific Grove, and Leonard Wolf from Carmel; from Monrovia, H. L. Sutton. Poems by James Broughton, winner of the Phelan award in 1946, and by Robert Duncan

RED + NEWS

Mrs. Rush R. Wallace, chairman of the entertainment and instruction service of the Carmel chapter and coordinator at Fort Ord, reports that the Red Cross is performing many services for the men hospitalized at Fort Ord but that the help of the citizens here is greatly needed in developing the program. The Carmel chapter, working co-operatively with other nearby chapters, has been providing assistance in the hospital wards and craft shop through the Gray Lady Corps. Recruitment and training of additional volunteers in Gray Lady Service will be held in September as many more workers are needed both for day and evening duty. Mrs. Isabelle Terhune, chairman of the Gray Ladies for the Carmel Chapter, will be glad to take the applications of all those interested in this vital social work.

Miss Pauline McCallum, the Red Cross director at the Station Hospital, states that she is eager to have volunteers also in the arts and skills corps, as there are many of the patients (averaging over 300) in the hospital who benefit greatly from their work and interest in the craft shop. If you have a special hobby or craft in which you are proficient and which you would enjoy sharing, be sure to call Carmel Chapter, Phone 382.

The Red Cross recreational worker at the hospital, Miss Betty Eschen, has requested the recruitment of hostesses to serve from 6 to 8 p. m. in recreational programs for the ambulatory and convalescent patients. Hostesses, who must be at least 18 years of age, work under the direct supervision of the Red Cross staff. It is hoped that at least twenty-five young women from Carmel can be secured for this corps, so that each need serve an average of only once a month. Further information can be secured from the executive chairman of the Carmel chapter, Miss Fogel.

Mrs. Wallace reports that chapter funds are being used to supply magazine subscriptions, craft materials, and furnishings for the recreational day room. Many Carmelites have gotten into the habit of dropping their previous month's magazines at the chapter house on Dolores street for the Gray La-appear in the poetry column of this issue of The Pine Cone. Next issue will contain representative verse by Madeline Gleason and William Justema.

Tickets may be bought at the Wall Gallery in Monterey, or at Lial's music stores in Carmel and Monterey.

dies to take with them to Fort Ord. More such contributions can be used providing the magazines are not older than two months.

Mrs. Wallace also adds that she is combing the community for entertainment for the able-bodied servicemen as well as for the hospitalized. The dramatic group directed by Lee Crowe gave extra performances of "The Night of January 16" at Fort Ord not so long ago. But much more entertainment is needed—vocal or instrumental music, dancing, comic skits, and the like, would be especially enjoyed by the boys. Organizations as well as individuals with ideas or talent along these lines are urged to share their abilities in this way. Carmel with its wealth of cultural enterprise should be able to offer much.

A remarkably fine job has been done by the stalwart band of Gray Ladies who, unlike so many that ceased their activities with the close of the war, see the continuing need for their services. Our peacetime army is now being greatly expanded, and Fort Ord as a training center is again rapidly enlarging. Most of the boys are only 17 or 18 years of age, many away from home for the first time. Being lonely as well as sick, those at the Station Hospital have no one to turn to except the Red Cross. We have a responsibility that we must meet so long as we need an army of high morale. We can all help—whether in the Gray Ladies, instructing arts and crafts, assisting in recreational work as a hostess, furnishing entertainment, or merely giving current magazines.

1000 men rush expansion of P. G. and E.'s greatest power plant

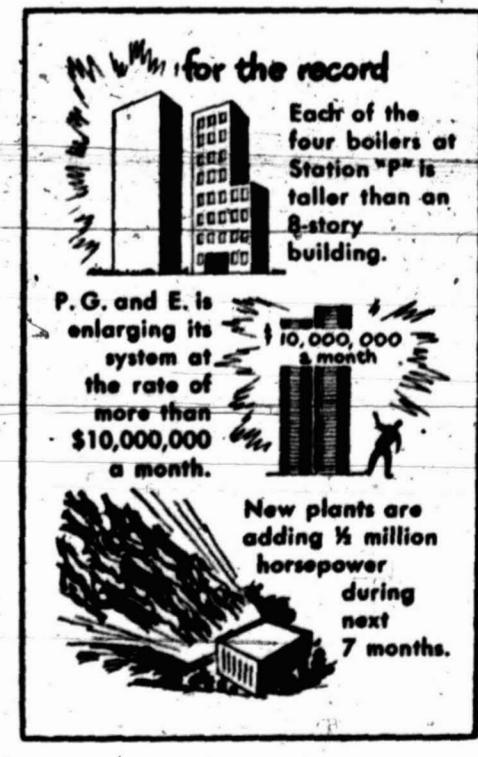

Near the lapping waters of the Bay at Hunters Point in San Francisco, P. G. and E.'s Station "P" is rapidly growing from a good sized power plant into a giant with an electric generating capacity of 360,000 horsepower. When the new power goes on the line this winter, Station "P" will be the largest generating plant on P. G. and E.'s vast system. And it's just part of our postwar construction program which is adding nearly 2,000,000 horsepower to our power supply.

We put salt water to work at Station "P." Two tunnels, six by nine feet, will pour 230,000,000 gallons of Bay water daily through the plant to cool the steam from the turbine-generators. That's nearly three times as much water as San Francisco uses every day.

When Station "P" hits its maximum output, it will produce six times as much electrical power as it does today. Still other plants, both steam and hydro, are on the way to provide more power for Northern and Central California homes, farms and factories.

Work never stops on our power-building program

China Convoy . . .

By L. F. BOSSHARDT

PART IV.

Friday, August 23: St. Anthony disabled, El Rey towing. This is it. She must be towed to Wake Island. We have 200 miles to go, weather fine. I order Rosanne, Balestrari and Jackie Boy to proceed at convoy speed to Wake Island, Balestrari acting convoy commander, Pacific Star standing by with El Rey and St. Anthony. Speed five knots.

At noon, August 24, the Balestrari reported her landfall and at 3:00 p. m. we sighted the water tanks on the island. Now there lay 4,000 miles of the Pacific astern of us. We have one disabled ship and 3,000 miles to go. I am determined that the St. Anthony will arrive at Guam, at least, if we must all tow her. Probably we can get parts for her in Wake.

We enter the lagoon at Wake Island through a narrow channel, blasted from the coral, and are met by the executive officer of the Naval station here. Good news, the Navy can give us 300 gallons of fresh water and 1,000 gallons of fuel oil. This is far more than I expected, as this isolated dot on the Pacific has to obtain its water from the rainfall, and the fuel oil is hauled from Eniwetok some 600 miles away.

Wake Island still has her war scars and here there is real evidence of the defense put up by the hard-fighting Marines.

On the reefs that fringe the island are the remains of Jap landing craft whose landing parties perished where the boats lay. The two naval 5-inch guns are still in their mounts but spiked and useless. These were the guns that sank part of the Jap fleet that was to take the island. On the coral road nearby is the place where some 90 civilian workers were shot down by the invader. This is truly hallowed ground, and standing here where so much courage was shown I thanked God that I am an American and privileged to live under the flag of the nation for which the heroic men on this island fought and died.

The personnel of the convoy received their last inoculation shots today and there are many sore arms. I received three shots but with no ill effects.

Set the sailing date, August 27, my birthday, but St. Anthony is undergoing repairs, and we may be delayed. I will delay no longer than the 28th. If St. Anthony is not ready to sail under her own power she will be towed the 1,300 miles to Guam.

Wednesday, August 28, the convoy departed Wake Island. St. Anthony under her own power.

From San Francisco to Wake we had the N. E. trades and had no reason to be concerned with weather. Now we are in the typhoon belt and the month of August is the month of greatest typhoon frequency. I'll look to the barometer from here to destination.

The typhoon of the Western Pacific is a blood brother of the hurricane of the Caribbean. While my little fleet can stand rough going I would hate to see them subjected to one of these blows. There is no describing the force of these storms. The seas that make up from the terrific winds are enough to strike terror into any seaman's heart. But unlike other storms, the typhoon gives ample warning and if the signs are properly read one can usually maneuver out of the storm's path. The barometer is the all important instrument.

In the tropics, that is the area bound by latitude 23 degrees North and 23 degrees South approximately, the barometer has a period of high and a period of low twice every 24 hours. This is called the diurnal oscillation. The rise and fall amounts to approximately .03 inches. If this oscillation is disturbed by a great rise or fall, it is a dead certainty that a tropical disturbance is taking place. Long glassy swells, with a light sun's haze in the sky are unmistakable signs.

(To be continued next week)

THE BIRD OR THE FRUIT

*He owned a goose and an apple tree, two foods he liked best in the world.
But every ripe apple that fell to the ground his goose got up early to eat.*

*O which shall I keep:
the bird or the fruit?*

*He built a fence round his apple tree,
his goose flew over before he was up.
He hung a net below the boughs,
she worked all night and pulled it down.*

*O which shall I keep:
the bird or the fruit?*

*He chopped to the ground his apple tree,
one food he liked best in the world.
But his goose in anger flew away and he sat alone in his yard.*

*O which shall I keep:
the bird or the fruit?*

—JAMES BROUGHTON.

THE STRAWBERRIES UNDER THE SNOW

*Digging in the snow, the children
uncovered wild strawberries,
rosy and joyous, hidden among leaves,
red, red as the blood of the children fallen upon the drifts of snow.*

*All winter the snow fell;
the children lying in the chill snow drifts
uncovered wild strawberries
hidden among the leaves.
And the little Saints came down, the little Saints came down the ladders of Heaven to sing for the frozen children whose tears
glowed like love in the cold.*

*Beautiful Griselda,
How you dream!
You have been drinking wine, child,
that's why your heart is singing.
Your cold face does not move
but how you dream!
You turn your head in the drifts of leaves
until the snow melts and your dreaming eyes open like strawberries.*

*There is no evil here.
The snow is so soft, so white.
The children will never waken,
they are not dead. They sleep.
O how the heart breaks
yearning to awaken the sleeping children.
Look! Childhood lies here at the foot of the ladders of Heaven.
Here are the strawberries.
There is no evil here.*

—ROBERT DUNCAN.

Have You Read . . .?

By JOHN UPTON

The Double Axe, by Robinson Jeffers. Random House; 149 pp. $2.75.

Robinson Jeffers has looked upon mankind for 61 years, and apparently has not liked what he has seen. The titles of some of his 13 volumes of verse since 1916 are an index of his progressive loathing for this "absurd ape"—Dear Judas, Descent to the Dead, Give Your Heart to the Hawks. As his admiration for man has dwindled, his love for the earth has grown deeper; in the latest collection, his first poetry since 1941, Jeffers voices a towering contempt:

"I think the whole human race ought to be scrapped and is on the way to it; ground like fish-meal for soil food."

Of the earth, he muses:

"... it is deep peace and final joy
To know that the great world lives, whether man dies or not."

The title poem of The Double Axe is a narrative embodying the author's glowering rage at America's role in the two world wars ("God forgive America, the brutal meddler, the senseless destroyer . . .") Some of his more trenchant observations have promoted his publishers to announce that they feel "compelled to go on record with . . . disagreement over some of the political views pronounced by the poet in this volume." The poem is divided in two parts, dealing respectively with war's brutalising effect on the individual and on the philosophical concepts of the race.

Part I, The Love and the Hate, is a grim chronicle studded with suicide, murder, adultery, and rape, dealing with the posthumous return of a war-victim to his home on the California coast. His hatred for man's greed and cruelty sustains his already rotting corpse until it wreaks the ultimate destruction of his family in the midst of its bestiality. In the second section, The Inhumanist, Jeffers shows the plight of the thinking man in a world bent on its own destruction. The speaker is an old man who, Zarathustra-like, has retired to the mountains in the company of his double axe, the symbol of the opposing forces of the flesh and the spirit, the cross of generation. It is in The Inhumanist that the poet is most articulate in his venomous attack on the human race.

"It seems time that our race began to think as an adult does, rather than like an egocentric baby or an insane person. This manner of thought . . . is a means of maintaining sanity in slippery times . . . it offers a reasonable detachment as rule of conduct, instead of love, hate, and envy," says the author in his introduction.

Jeffers' debt to Nietzsche is considerable here, although his approach and conclusions are quite different. Zarathustra's detachment is guided toward the ultimate regeneration of the race, while Jeffers finds two ways out only: death or the abandonment of civilization as we understand it. The framework of The Inhumanist however, is almost identical to that of Thus Spake Zarathustra: the central figure is a recluse who has seen men clearly, and has fled in terror; his only companion is the symbol of his philosophy (Nietzsche's eagle and serpent, Jeffers' double axe.)

The surprising element in any of Jeffers' work is that, in spite of his gritty subject matter, the result is poetry in the most artistic sense. A thoroughly competent craftsman, he attains in this volume some of the vituperative heights of Dean Swift without sacrificing beauty of line or concept.

Included in the volume are 27 shorter poems, some of which have been previously published. The collection as a whole is a highly integrated one; the motif, a whole-hearted contempt for the vicious foolishness of the human race, is sustained throughout.

The Time Has Come . . .

By Kippy Stuart

This business of watering a garden is subject to controversy. The experts are not quite agreed on the matter, so how can the home gardener hope to do the correct thing? There is one school that warns against watering in the sunshine; there is another school that warns against watering after the sun has set. Well, here we are, all busy folk, tied to our particular jobs and the job must come before the garden.

What is a garden anyhow? It is a spot for relaxation; a place for rest and soliloquy. A man and his garden come together in the eventide. If we turn our gardens into experimental farms we lose the purport of that garden which is quiet and peace. As to which one of the watering schools is correct, the truth of the matter is, both are correct. It stands to reason that in a temperature of 90 degrees and upward, water may damage the foliage. It is just as evident that water at night, in a deep fog, may bring fungus and mildew. So, I believe that it is not a question of when to water, but rather of how to water.

The first prerequisite in the watering schedule is to prepare the ground to hold the water. Before you take your hose in hand, be sure you take your hoe in hand. Around trees and shrubs, make a deep depression and form a saucer around each plant. Turn on a small stream and place the hose at the base of the plant. There is no earthly use in sprinkling trees and shrubs. The ground may appear to be wet, but if you investigate you will discover that not more than the mere surface is dampened. A shrub must drink and drink deeply or fade away.

At this time of year more fine flora is lost through inadequate watering than at any other time.

This method of slow irrigation obviates the necessity of holding the hose. One can set several hoses at one time and go away to other tasks. And right here is my warning. "Don't do as I do, but do as I say!" Don't forget to turn those hose off! Me! I have seven hose going at once and I just as apt to hop my car and forget all about them. My water bill is my accuser.

The Monterey Peninsula is not harassed by the burning summer temperature, so we need not heed the "sun watering." We can wash our foliage of our plants any sunny day, but it is not wise to allow our garden to go to sleep dripping water. One may soak the base of shrubs at any time.

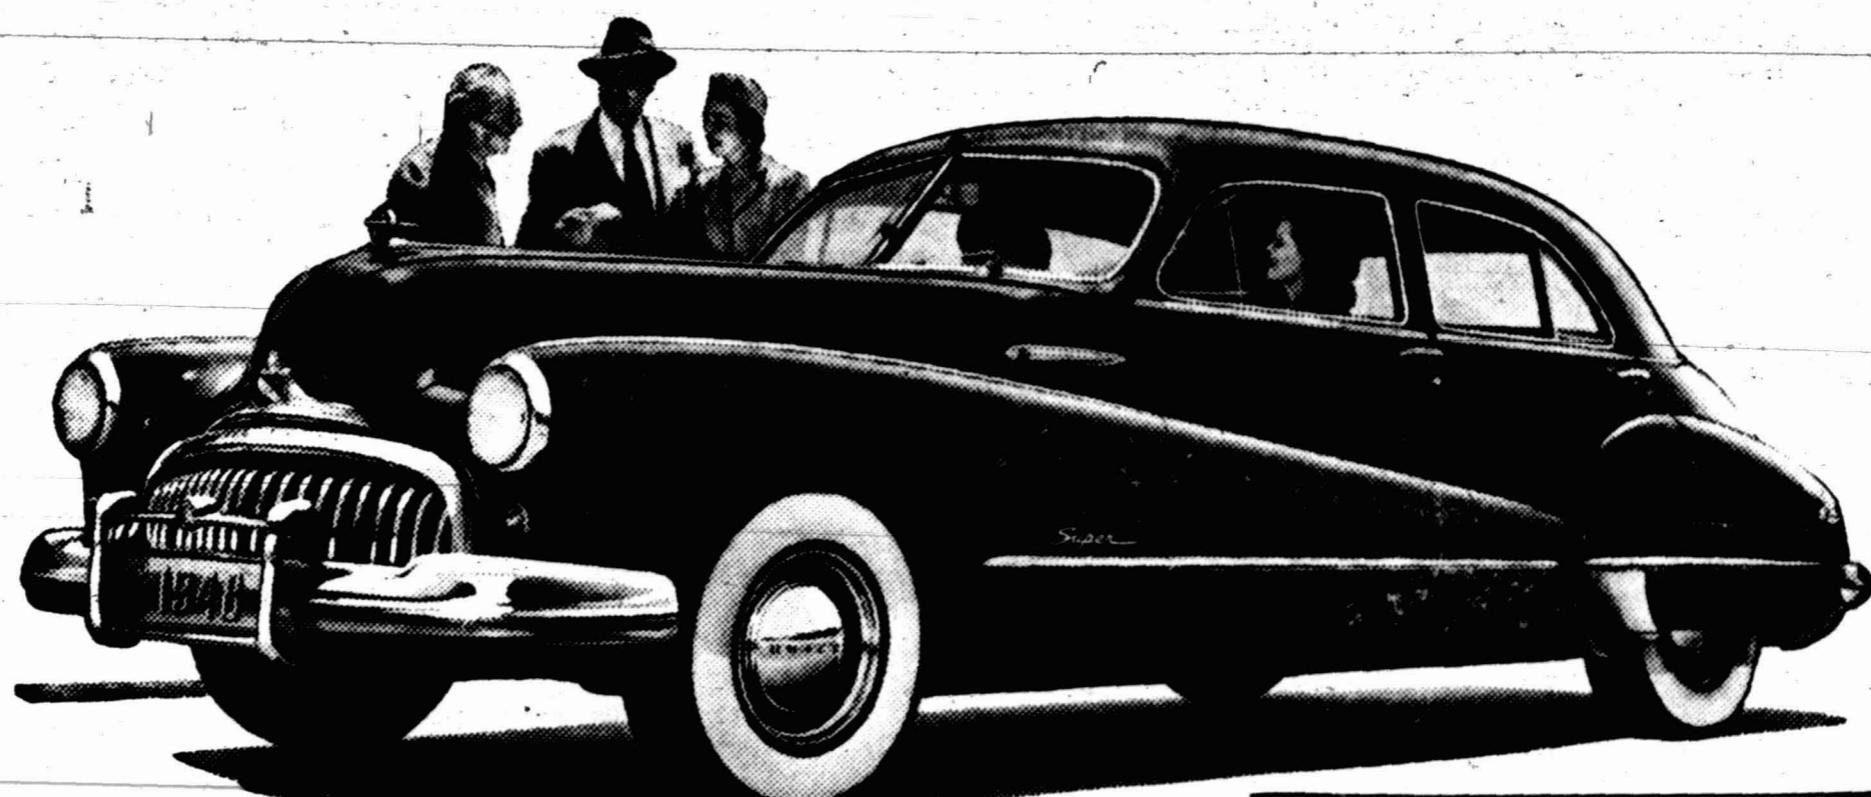

Flower gardens are something else again. No tender annual should ever be hit in the face by a blast from the hose. I learned from the Pine Inn gardener, Fred Matsuyama, a watering trick or two that has saved me hours of labor. Fred, who is an expert in this matter of watering, favors the canvas Soil Soaker for grass; and a cloth tied around the end of the hose for garden beds. The Soil Soaker is one gadget that you may go away and forget, for one only turns on a small trickle and a few hours of this method will refresh your grass. The water goes into the ground, rather than speeding across the ground. Just pull the Soil Soaker about the lawn and be sure you get your feet wet in the process; then you will know you are a gardener.

WHAT'S THE PRICE OF A BUICK?

7 out of 10 Guess Too High!

WE'LL admit that this husky two-ton honey looks like something super duper.

much as most other things — or even as much as the cost of building them.

When you sample its ride, its handling and the silken liveliness of its big Fireball straight-eight power plant, you are likely to ticket it in the near-luxury class.

So don't jump to conclusions without a bit of shopping around. Get the delivered prices — not only on Buick but on others, too—including cars with far less power, far less heft, far less room and far less distinction.

So, naturally, when we put the question to a cross section of carwise men and women—when we asked them to name their idea of the delivered price for a Buick SUPER — 7 out of 10 guessed too high!

You'll find that a lot of folks are paying within a few dollars of the price of a Buick — or maybe more than the price of a Buick — and getting something that can't hold a candle to what a Buick has to offer.

The fact is that—in relation to today's values—Buick prices begin at a lower level than before the war.

You'll find that price comparison gives you another sound reason for getting your firm order in — particularly since your Buick dealer will take it with or without a car to trade.

Dollar-wise, all prices are up — but Buick cars are not up as

Popular Couple Wed

High through the windows of their studio tower on the Monterey Wharf, we have been used to seeing the beautiful Blair sisters, blonde Barbara and brunette Virginia, like two ladies of Shallott working away at their pottery. Now, though Barbara will continue working with her sister, she has assumed the marital duties of being Mrs. Gerald Wasserman.

At a quiet family wedding at St. John's Chapel in Del Monte on Monday afternoon at 12:30, Barbara Blair, daughter of Mrs. Nora Blair of Carmel, became the bride of Gerald Ansel Wasserman, son of Mrs. Jenny Wasserman of Carmel. Miss Blair wore a ballet length white crepe, with which she carried Peruvian lilies; she was attended by her sister, Virginia Blair, who wore long yellow crepe and carried tuberous begonias.

The best man was Wynfield Stampfer of Monterey. Mrs. Blair wore a navy blue suit, Mrs. Wasserman wore a navy blue print and both mothers carried tuberous begonias.

The young couple went south for their honeymoon and on their return will settle in Monterey where Mr. Wasserman is in partnership with Mr. Stampfer in display work.

Miss Blair was a student one year at the University of Colorado, then finished the rest of her studies at the University of California at Los Angeles. Mr. Wasserman studied at the Art Institute of Chicago for four years, then studied in Mexico and New York after leaving the services.

Gallery Reception

The reception which was given Monday night at the Carmel Art Gallery in honor of the Bach musicians resulted in the biggest crush the gallery has ever had. Against walls bright with the latest paintings of Carmel artists, hostesses in evening gowns, and 500 people, around 200 of them musicians, gathered to enjoy the after-effects of the first concert in the annual Bach series. A spirit of happiness and gaiety glowed in the room, tribute in itself to the overwhelming power of music, and especially that of the great German master.

House Guests
Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Adams of Carmel have been visited by Mrs. Adams' sister, Mrs. J. T. Brown and her three children, Larry, Nancy, and Jerry Clay, from West Covina, about twenty miles outside of Los Angeles. They were here about two weeks, were shown all the points of interest, and said they had a wonderful time and loved Carmel.

Outdoor Art Show

Local artists should get in touch with Kathleen Talbot or Alex Zeller of San Juan Bautista if they wish to exhibit.

Women who are interested in quality in every aspect of their daily activity, will demand quality in their kitchen, and the only answer to that is an Estate Range which will be found waiting for your inspection at the WALDO HICKS plumbing shop on Junipero. Along with all the other qualifications of this range, its main asset, we believe, is the double oven, which features the Bar-B-Kewer that broils whole hams, roasts or fowl, leaving your bake oven entirely free for the muffins or cake you might want to be cooking at the same time. This two-oven capacity gives you a new kind of freedom in the kitchen, and certainly permits you to cut down on your cooking hours. Be sure to go in to WALDO HICKS and see the Estate Ranges.

Fresh is the password up at MAC'S POULTRY SHOP on San Carlos street, where fresh turkeys, fresh rabbits and a great range of fresh ranch eggs are waiting for your inspection. Typical of summer menus which feature strawberries and corn on the cob are the broilers, fryers, roasters, and fricassees lined up fresh and clean on the shelves at MAC'S POULTRY SHOP, which you absolutely need to give a late summer touch to your meal. Select your poultry here, and enjoy fine dining, fashionable dining, because you're in tune with summer-time when you feast on chicken or turkey for dinner.

After wandering about Point Lobos, picnicking at China Bay, driving around the Highlands Coast, you can keep the same magnificent ecstatic scenery before your eyes by driving up to the HIGHLANDS INN and cocktailing and dining in the beautiful rooms, provided with an incredible amount of window space, giving you view and more view. By finishing your day at the HIGHLANDS INN, you will have given yourself a whole day of scenic pleasure, all bound within a few easy miles, which limitation gives you the locale of a place far more than scattering your energies here and there. So, we suggest a picnic in Point Lobos followed by a refreshing cocktail and a wonderful dinner at the HIGHLANDS INN for a completely happy day.

The VILLAGE LAMPLIGHTERS has just received an exciting new shipment of modern lamps fashioned of a china base with a fabric over parchment shade in simple drum and oblong shapes. The colors keep the modern touch, being a combination of salmon or turquoise, or ox-blood, or ebony. They are mostly lamps for the living room, and there is one really ultra-modern and stunning affair with a yellow base and gold shade. Lamps and their shades are one of the definite accessories which complete and harmonize your entire color scheme, and you will want to get into the VILLAGE LAMPLIGHTERS right away to see these smart new lamps.

For all of you who have come to Carmel to enjoy our annual Bach festival and would like to know a delightful place to have a pre-concert cocktail and dinner, we should like to tell you about SADE'S on Ocean Avenue, where you can gather a good rounded-out impression of Carmel as you dine, and where you will want to return after the end of the concert for a pleasant nightcap. The mellowness and ease of SADE'S will fit in well with your classical music mood.

PHIL NESBITT is still in the caricaturist group reflecting the indigenous humor of Carmel. A town without its humorous aspects is a grim place indeed. He is just now putting forth a series of eight whimsical post cards which do their level best to add humor and a laugh for Carmel's visitors. The Carmel-by-the-Sea shop on the corner just above P. A. McCreery's office, is to sell them.

Every girl with a silver thimble and a yen to make herself some pretty clothes will be happy to know that BALZER'S CARMEL DEPARTMENT STORE on Dolores street is now fully stocked with Advance Patterns which are particularly suited for the smart junior set, and are presented in nearly every issue of Mademoiselle. If Advance Patterns please you, your whole wardrobe can be constructed from them, for there are patterns for blouses, aprons, lingerie, suits, slacks, formal, nightgowns, and specialized patterns for girls, men, boys, and just about anything you can think of, or want to make. So needle and thread addicts, go into BALZER'S CARMEL DEPARTMENT STORE and thumb through all the new Advance Patterns.

The CARMEL VALLEY INN announces that it is discontinuing its all day Sunday dinner in favor of a buffet dinner by the pool from 6:30 to 8:00 starting Sunday, July 25. It's always sunny and warm in the valley and nice to spend your Sundays driving out in the sun and having a delicious buffet dinner around a gleaming green pool. The spacious Inn is always a pleasure to visit with its number of wide windows, its off-pink walls, green lawns and gleaming pool in which you can have a dip if you're a member of the Swim Club. But mark Sundays especially down in your date book for a buffet dinner at the CARMEL VALLEY INN.

When you can't think of anything to cook for dinner, what is nicer than to be able to dash into a delicatessen and find something already prepared for you. MILDRED'S CAFE on Pearl Street in Monterey now offers you this pleasant service, with wonderful enchiladas, tamales, and chili beans, fresh three times a week, for you to take home. While I was taking notes from Mildred, three customers looked up from their enchiladas, nodded their heads and said we approve. MILDRED'S CAFE also serves fine lunches from .60 to .75, every day but Sunday, and is open at 6:30 a. m. to 8:00 p. m. And don't forget to test out the delicatessen service.

The answer to every tourist and native prayer is the new shipment of cottons at GAIL COUPE'S shop on San Carlos street. Butcher linens, chambrays, and seersuckers head the smart materials, and a great many of the cottons are quaintly nostalgic with pleated bodices, ruffled sleeves, soft necklines. Those of you who are putting campus wardrobes together will want a supply of the back-to-school fall cottons. And a bit of new maneuvering at the GAIL COUPE shop is the re-styling, alteration and tailoring department which has been organized to take care of your worries of dress vs. you. Phone 666-W.

As always, whatever GUMP'S presents is exclusive, beautifully made, and finely finished. You may now see, in their store on Dolores street, couches made in sectional pieces, in three, four, five, six pieces, whatever you like, each section a complete piece of furniture in itself. The sectional couches are made of foam rubber and springs, are covered in gros-point wall fabric and can be had in gray, green, or beige. The sides of the couch have a sculptured effect, and the couch itself is wide enough to sleep on. GUMP'S also carries out the sectional idea in coffee and cocktail tables, arranging similar small tables in groups or in separate individual placement. Let Mr. Bragiotti show you the beautiful furniture presented by GUMP'S.

After listening to the music of Bach, it might be fun to drop into the VILLAGE CORNER and have a great big cooling Oaken Bucket Sundae, by this time famous and renowned among the byways and lanes of Carmel, and equally popular with juniors and adults. For your all year round convenience, and especially for your pleasure at Festival time, the VILLAGE CORNER stays open until 11:30 every night, and so supplies the perfect requisite for your after-concert plans: a place where you and your friends can gather to go over every note of the concert, discuss who wore what, and sip excellent black coffee.

Plan your paper picnics from KIP'S on Ocean Avenue where everything for happy picnicking is at your convenience. Paper cups, plates, forks, are waiting for you, and all the ingredients to put together a delicious lunch: buns, mustard, weenies, pickles, butter, coffee, potato salad, huge fresh crabs to chew on, popcorn to pop, peaches and strawberries and tomatoes, cookies and popsicles for the kids, candy bars, and fried chicken, if you want to be elaborate. Wander into KIP'S, and within fifteen minutes you'll have everything easily and quickly selected for one of those popular, Carmel beach picnics.

Flooding the GARDEN SHOP on San Carlos will be more of the smocks and coolie coats which have become so popular with women who can see the chic in a smock with a Dutch design in red on white, or a flower print in maroon on a rose background. You can wear a smock over a summer gown for lunching, wear it into the garden, on the sand dunes for a beach coat, wear it almost anywhere anytime, and watch its usefulness increase, its graciousness develop. Also at the GARDEN SHOP are woven coolie hats which are especially fun for the creative temperament, as they can be soaked in lukewarm water and formed into any shape you want. We think it would be fun to sew black linen under the open framework, pin a cluster of pink roses on top. Watch for the green barrel which denotes the GARDEN SHOP on San Carlos.

August is nearly here and with it all seasonal mellow summer flowers that match August for deep summer beauty. Dahlias are showing their large white faces, or sometimes their little red ones, or they might even appear in lavender; then there is pale blue larkspur, the color of August skies and water, and zinnias in rich colors of assorted reds and purples and oranges. Check the FLOR DE MONTEREY on Franklin street for August flowers, and get your summer decorations lined up with August flower colors.

Brief cases, bags, bill folds, buckles and belts are all to be found at THE LEATHER SHOP on Alvarado street in the Kimball Building in Monterey. You should step inside and look around to see all the wonders that can be created out of leather and silver, the cowhide, sharkskin and pigskin brief cases, with smart Lady Diplomats in red and brown alligator, the incredible number of styles in bags, bill folds and belts, and the fine sterling designs of the buckles. And you won't want to pass up the hand carved bags which are marvelous with tailored clothes. Go into the LEATHER SHOP and see what can be fashioned when leather is handled skilfully and smartly.

Rounding out the summer, August is the month at which you'll want to hit your peak; it's the crest of the summer season, and should be your crest of summer activity and chic. If you're not ready for it, and for your coolest cottons, and trimmest swim suits, we suggest a few swift trips to the STAUFFER SYSTEM on Mission and Fifth streets, where they will soon have you ready to face your last summer chance of the season with fine aplomb and gay bravado. You'll probably do more patio entertaining, more beaching, and picnicking in August than in any other month, and the STAUFFER SYSTEM will help you really finish up the season in high style.

Every morning at MAXINE'S dress shop on Dolores, street garments are selected from among the stock and hung on the sale racks for your discriminating approval. For the neat price of $5.00 to $15.00, you will find a large assortment of clothes to fill out your summer wardrobe, and to get your September plans started. Among the garments which you will sort through, will be pedal pushers, two piece silk suits, lots of smart white dresses in sharkskin and linen, one with a gold leather stripe around the neck, long fashionable dusters, and dresses, blouses and skirts. Your leisure will be agreeably interrupted by a saunter through the sale racks at MAXINE'S.

Opening in a few days will be a new HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT, with the same charming owners, Margo and Jack Bauer, but with a new location housing a newer and larger display of the smart Carmel type of jewelry on which the HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT has founded its popularity. The new house will be on the corner.

of Sixth and Dolores streets, right down from the post office, and you can catch a flicker of gleaming gold and jewels as you wander past to post your mail. With walls of combed plywood, ultra modern lighting, a predominance of gray and beige tones, the shop will retain its former air of simplified elegance.

That big copper clock that dominates the waiting room at JOE'S TAXI will always give you the exact time as well as giving you the feeling of security and sureness that an accurate clock somehow always does. In fact, the entire waiting room was designed with just that idea in mind, comfort, security, in other words, Carmel's famous air of easy casual living carried out and expressed in one room's decor, so that while you wait for taxi or bus you are as relaxed as though you were home. And on every chilly night, when that famous fog creeps in, a fire is lit in the brick fireplace and you can carry your coffee from counter to a cozy spot in front of the fire while you wait.

All Saints' Parish Opens Drive To Build New $225,000 Church

The fund-raising campaign for the new All Saints' Episcopal Church and parish house will open officially at a general congregational rally Monday evening, Captain Archer M. R. Allen, Senior Warden and chairman of the Building Fund Committee, announced this week. The proposed structure, to be erected on Ninth Avenue between Dolores and Lincoln at an estimated cost of $225,000, was had from the Reverend Alfred B. Seccombe, rector, or from Captain Archer M. R. Allen, senior warden, P. O. Box 1296, Carmel.

Fort Ord To Man New Kansas Camp

Approximately 227 officers and nearly 2,000 enlisted men, presently members of the 4th Infantry Division cadre at Fort Ord, will form the bulk of the training cadre for the recently reactivated 10th Infantry Division (Mountain) to be stationed at Camp Funston, Kansas. Camp Funston is being reopened in conjunction with the expansion plans of the Army resulting from the recent draft legislation.

Major General Lester J. Whitlock, Commanding General of the 10th Mountain Division, is presently at Fort Ord to confer with Major General Jens A. Doe, Commanding General of the 4th Infantry Division, concerning the coordination of the transfer of personnel to the new installation and to study certain training methods now employed at Ord.

Property for the new church was bought during the war, as well as the site for the future rectory in Hatton Fields; in 1947 the present church property on Monte Verde near Ocean was sold to the city of Carmel as a site for municipal buildings. Under this agreement, the church must vacate the property by February, 1952.

The main church structure will be at the Dolores street level, seating 258 in permanent pews, with room for a choir of 36 and the organ console in the chancel. The administration group will provide for the rectory, vestry, choir, and three of the church school classes. The parish house, facing on Lincoln street, will accommodate 200 in its hall, and is to include a nursery, sewing room, youth lounge, kitchen, pantry, serving room, and outdoor terrace with barbecue pit.

Construction is expected to start as soon as sufficient funds are available. Since the present rectory is on the site of the proposed church, one of the first projects will be to provide for the rector and his family by erection of his new home in Hatton Fields.

Contributions may be made in the following ways: cash, securities; naming the church as beneficiary of insurance policies; deeds of real estate; and bequests. Information regarding contributions and special memorial gifts may be

Big Business On Dolores St. Shows $1800 Increase

One of the most prosperous businesses in this town from point of view of quarterly increase in dollar volume occupies the cramped quarters on Dolores street, familiarly known as the P. O.

Ernest Bixler, who runs the place, reports another almost two thousand dollar increase this quarter. Gross receipts, actual income—money derived from money order sales and bond sales not included—amount to $24,000 for the quarter ending June 30. Of this, $21,725.75 was acquired through stamp sales, $1,778 for box rent, $440.06 for permit matter.

Last quarter the total receipts were $22,148.14; this quarter's increase: $1,884.49.

CORRAL DE TIERRA FIRE

Approximately two acres of grass were burned off at the Walter Markham ranch in Corral de Tierra Monday afternoon when flying sparks from an acetylene torch set off a blaze that kept ranch hands and crews from the Carmel Hill Fire Station busy for two hours. The fire, reported at 2:30, was brought under control before buildings were damaged.

Peninsula Dentists

Lay Groundwork For Youth Dental Clinic

Tuesday evening, July 20, the Monterey Peninsula Dentists convened to discuss and to study a dental health program for this area. The meeting was presided by Dr. Raymond Brownell, president of the Tri-County Dental Society of Santa Cruz, San Benito and Monterey counties. The main speaker and consultant of the evening was Dr. Hugo Kulstad, chief of the Bureau of Dental Health, State Department of Public Health, and chairman of the Council on Dental Health of the American Dental Association.

Recital Of Pupils

Amid beautiful surroundings in the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. T. Patee at Pebble Beach, Mrs. Kathryn Lansdowne presented her intermediate class in a piano recital Sunday, July 18. There are fifteen students in this group, but due to vacations, not all were present. Nine of the young people gave a program of numbers by Tschaikowsky, Chopin, Liszt and Bach, and adaptations by Lerman, Schaum, and John Thompson. The pianists were Kathryn Janet Cope, Edmund Patee, Beverly Joan Pryor, Ina Carolyn Adams, Diane Tootelian, Robert Ruth Vallon, Renee Mathilda Vallon, Carole Sue Goodrich, and Myrna Sutton. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Lansdowne's daughter, Mrs. A. C. Smiley, Jr., and her niece, Mrs. McKinnon Lansdowne. About fifty guests enjoyed the recital.

Thomas Perry Joins Stanley Pedder In Law Practice Here

Thomas K. Perry, who first visited Carmel in 1926, has recently returned to the Monterey Peninsula and is associating with Stanley Pedder in the practice of law in Carmel. He and his wife, Mrs. Perry, and their six and a half year old daughter, Pamela, are making their home in the Mrs. John Hale house on Ocean View; they plan to build on their property in Hatton Fields.

Mr. Perry was a practicing at-

George A. Childers, Jr., formerly of Carmel, in the robes which he wore as lay reader of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Elsinore, California. He was licensed as one of the youngest in the United States two weeks prior to his death, which was a tragic drowning, with his father, in Lake Elsinore, July 8. He is a son of Mrs. Kenneth Smith of Carmel.

Geo. Childers, Father, Drown At Lake Elsinore

George A. Childers, Jr., 19, recent Carmel High School graduate, and his father, George A. Childers of Elsinore, Riverside County, were drowned July 8 when a newly-purchased hydroplane in which they were riding capsized on Lake Elsinore. Young Childers was the son of Mrs. Kenneth E. Smith of Carmel.

Upon his graduation from Carmel High School in 1947, when he was voted the most outstanding member of his class, Childers moved to Elsinore to take over the Lakeside Press. There he lived with his father and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Childers. Two weeks prior to his death he was licensed as one of the youngest Episcopal Lay Readers in the United States at St. Andrew's Church in Elsinore by the Reverend John MacArthur, vicar. While in Carmel he was an acolyte at All Saints' Church.

Since the beginning of his interest in literature while a student here, young Childers had spectacular success in writing for magazines and other publications.

Family members have been informed that a benefit is being arranged by several Hollywood movie people to raise funds for Lake Elsinore life-saving equipment. The installation will be named the George A. Childers Memorial.

In addition to his mother, he leaves a younger brother, Teddy Childers, and his step-father, Kenneth Smith of Carmel.

A requiem mass for the father and son was held July 11 at St. Andrew's in Elsinore, conducted by the Reverend MacArthur. Services and burial were at Inglewood Park Cemetery near Los Angeles July 12.

He is a graduate of Pasadena High School, Wesleyan University and the University of Michigan Law School and has been admitted to practice before the courts of California, the Supreme Court of the United States as well as the courts of Michigan.

$150,000 Sanitary Improvements; Board Increases Taxes

the purchase is completed.

Before they left various members of the audience presented their reasons for preferring a bond issue to a tax levy, namely, that they believed that the people who would eventually have the use of the sanitary district, the inhabitants of the future, should help pay for it, instead of the present population having to bear the entire burden. It was also pointed out that if the sanitary district got away with paying for capital outlay through tax levy rather than bond issue the city council and school board might feel justified in following the same easy-on-the-board and hard-on-the-tax-payers system of financing improvements.

"We don't think a bond issue would carry for sewage plant improvements," L. O. Kellogg said.

"Look at the work the school board had to do to put over their bond issue," another member pointed out.

"I'm too busy to go out and sell a bond issue to this community," Keith Evans said.

The following citations are included in the sermon:

Psalms: "Shew me thy ways, O Lord; teach me thy paths. Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou are the God of my Salvation; on thee do I wait all the day" (25:4, 5).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Prayer cannot change the unalterable Truth; nor can prayer alone give us an understanding of Truth; but prayer, coupled with a fervent habitual desire to know and do the will of God, will bring us into all Truth" (p. 11).

Derrick-cranes And Rock Crushers, That's Going Too Far, Say Murphy Neighbors—More Want In On Petition

So many people were disappointed that they didn't get their names down on the M. J. Murphy lot abatement petition that another is being circulated to take care of the overflow, Naomi Fletcher told The Pine Cone yesterday.

The petition, signed by 39 property owners in Murphy's immediate neighborhood—Ninth and Monte Verde—was presented to the city council at its regular meeting. It said:

"We, the undersigned, do hereby petition the city council of Carmel to remove the Public Nuisance maintained by M. J. Murphy, Inc., at Ninth and Monte Verde, both the southwest and southeast corners.

"The southwest corner has been, and is being used as parking and service lot, not only for a fleet of huge trucks, but also, more and more, for heavy industrial equipment, such as derrick-crane, road-grader, rock crusher, cement-mixer, and so on. The southeast corner has, besides the office, a gas-serving station and machine shop for servicing all these vehicles. The piercing noise from this shop, plus the heavy rumbling and gas fumes from this equipment, are an ever-increasing disturbance and annoyance to the entire neighborhood. All this is also a major fire hazard.

"Thus we urgently petition the removal of this Public Nuisance from a residential area of Carmel."

The list of signatures, reading like a who's-who of Carmel old timers and substantial citizens, gave the city council pause. The problem involved is that M. J. Murphy, Inc., headed by Mike Murphy—an old timer in his own right—has a use permit dating from the year one for commercial use of the lot which is in a residential area. Whether or not Murphy has exceeded the rights and privileges originally allowed with the increased mechanization of his contracting and building business, is a point that the council decided to turn over to City Attorney William Hudson to investigate, but not until the mayor had tried for a peaceful out.

"Why don't you appoint a committee to see Mike about this first," Mayor Fred Godwin asked Naomi Fletcher, present to represent the petitioners. Naomi, whose mother has baked many a neighborly lemon pie for Mike Murphy, was amused at the mayor's suggestion. In the first place Mike is in Oregon and has been there for four years. In the second place, the neighbors have for years been calling on Mike individually and in groups to point out to him that they don't like his equipment yard in their laps. He's got a perfectly good yard with a fence around it in the industrial zone where he could keep that stuff, they say—two yards, in fact.

Signators of the petition include Etta C. and Naomi Fletcher, Elizabeth Pelley, Ella M. Kellogg, Alice W. Beardsley, Sara E. White, Ada McGee, Anna and Edward Heaton, Laura Bedau, Irene P. de Galler, Edna M. Austin, Elizabeth W. Landis, Genevieve and William Prosser, Mildred and Peggy Riker, Mary A. Reardon, Florence Curtin, Helen B. and Richard A. McClure, Agnes L. Williston, Elizabeth Armstrong, Stella Herron, Eugene and Grace Watson, Bertha Mead Reynolds, Louise Grigsby, J. A. and M. H. Rhodes, Kathryn Bradley, Mrs. G. I. Brewington, Amy Campbell, Durbin and E. H. Sayers, Colby Emigh, Virginia Brooks, Alan R. Campbell.

With the exception of two, all the signators not only own property in the immediate neighborhood of the Murphy lot, but like there, have lived there for many years, are good friends of the Murphys, but now announce that they have reached the limit of their patience.

Miss Fletcher and Miss Amy Campbell, who circulated the petition, made one mistake. Though they got enough signatures to convince the council that this is serious business, they didn't get enough signatures to satisfy the ones who were left out. Everybody for blocks around wants in on this. So Miss Fletcher says she'll pass around another, to be presented at the August 8 council meeting. A lot of people are going to be at the meeting, too, she says, to see what City Attorney William Hudson has found out, and what the council intends to do about it.

Streit, Author Of Union Now To Speak At Wayfarer Sunday

A visit to the Monterey Peninsula by Clarence Streit, author of Union Now and president of Federal Union, Inc., was announced today by Dr. Henry S. Houghton, chairman of the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the organization. Mr. Streit will be in Carmel on Saturday and Sunday to confer with members of the organization and others interested in uniting the free democracies in a federal union for joint action in matters of common concern. Such a Union was advocated in the 1939 edition of Union Now, as a practical nucleus for eventual world government.

On Sunday Streit will address the 9:30 a. m. service of the Church of the Wayfarer on the subject, "American Destiny."

Among those welcoming Mr. Streit are Dr. and Mrs. Henry Houghton, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Pedder, Mrs. Jane Blum, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Wurtzman, Dr. H. Spencer Hoyt, and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Miles Leoni. During his visit Mr. Streit will stay at the Leoni home in Carmel Valley.

A.F. of L. Votes To Back Cole Weston And Dr. Cunningham

Monterey County A. F. of L. political and educational committee men have voted to back Independent Progressive Party candidates for Congress and the state senate, although members stressed that the A. F. of L. was not endorsing the IPP by supporting the two candidates.

At a recent meeting at the Labor Temple in Salinas the group voted to shift to Cole Weston and Dr. Everett C. Cunningham, both nominated on the IPP ticket in the June primaries.

The move resulted because labor-backed candidates lost out in the Democratic primaries.

Weston opposes Bramblett, and Cunningham is running against State Senator Fred Weybret in the November general election.

Prior to adoption of the resolution to actively support the two IPP candidates, Cole Weston addressed the group, outlining the issues on which he is conducting his campaign. Preston Tuttle, campaign manager for the IPP in this area, spoke in behalf of Dr. Cunningham.

More Recruits For Redwoods Campaign

Even the poets have brought their heads out of the traditional clouds that surround them to take cognizance of the threatened destruction of the Butano redwood forest in San Mateo County. In their pint-sized newspaper, Poet's Corner, published "now and then" at Northridge, California, they urge in the blue ink that characterized the publication: "A total sum of $150,000 more is needed, a sum which the state will match to make a total proposed purchase price of $600,000 for this property which contains a forest of 3,000 years' growth of incomparable

Dr. Dardel Marvels At U.S. Hospital Efficiency

(Continued from Page One) as to climatic factors in cancer and its allied disorder, goiter; it is believed, however, that there is some correlation with sea air. One of the newest and most promising attacks on the disease is being carried on at the Presbyterian Hospital in Chicago, where experiments are being made with hormone treatment.

The Victoria Clinic at Berne, where Dr. Dardel is chief surgeon, is a 120-bed hospital owned by the Sisters of the Jungenbühl order. In an aerial photograph of the city, taken by his son, the capital of Switzerland has a medieval appearance; residences and public buildings continue to present the appearance of the Vieux Ville, dating from the Middle Ages. In a strict city planning arrangement, architects must submit plans for new buildings to city authorities, thus assuring the maintenance of the traditional character of the town.

"Berne means bear," the doctor said. "There is still a bear pit in Berne, where the living emblem of the city has been kept since the 18th century. The flag of Berne is almost identical to that of California."

"The standard of living in the United States is higher, generally speaking, than in Switzerland," Dr. Dardel remarked. "There are only a few automobiles, and practically no aircraft. Some of the mountain communities are quite primitive; some of the cities, on the other hand, are among the most industrialized in the world."

"Our primary purpose in coming to California was to find the sunshine," he said. He pointed out the window at the special tourist fog that Carmel manufactures, and regarded me reproachfully.

"Cut 'em Down, Piff-Paff" Attitude Of Planning Commission On Trees

Tree removals and building permits occupied the Carmel Planning Commission at their regular session Wednesday afternoon. Sitting as a Board of Adjustments, the members set public hearings for August 18 on building site applications submitted by Beatrice Clark and Simon M. Collins, and received formal withdrawal of a rezoning application by Harold P. Brown of Eighth and Monte Verde. Brown's application, asking changes in zoning boundaries to include his guest house, has been before the commission for several weeks.

Building permits were granted to Mercury Homes, for remodeling of the Red Cross building at Dolores and Eighth, and to Mrs. Mary L. Dummage for construction of a two-story commercial building on Lincoln near Ocean. Improvement of Eleventh Avenue, now under way, will call for removal of a number of trees, Commissioner Hurd Comstock anounced. With the exception of two pines in the first block west of San Carlos, trees affected will be between Mission and San Carlos streets, where their position interferes with the widening and surfacing of the street. "If left in, they will narrow the traffic surface to the equivalent of a one-way street," said Comstock, "and they'll have to come out sooner or later, since most of them are pretty old." The commission ordered a recommendation to this effect to the city council.

Mrs. Edith Thatcher, planning to build six apartment units on Mission, between Third and Fourth, was granted permission to remove two trees to allow access to garages and parking areas.

An increased coverage amendment to the zoning regulations, providing an additional 10 percent building area for religious, charitable, and educational structures, was set for public hearing August 4, at the council chambers.
